

First Mrs. Astor to be 'Mrs. John' Now At Home to Guard Rights in Big Estate

Mrs. Astor Declines Successor's Offer of Fifth Avenue Mansion During Stay.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Mrs. Astor, first wife of Colonel John Jacob Astor, who went down with the Titanic, has returned to America with her husband, old daughter Alice Model. She has to guard the interests of herself and her daughter in the estate of the late head of the Astor house in this country.

She and the little girl were dressed in black. They left their suite on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosser as the steamer was coming up the bay to make their customary declaration, and then returned to their rooms, outside which a stewardess and two stewards stood waiting.

During the trip Mrs. Astor had often appeared on deck with her daughter, but had spoken to no one. She looked tired. She registered at the Colony Club in this city about ten days ago as Mrs. John Astor. It was in effect a visit.

Atwood Fails in Flight to Portland

Trouble With Engine Causes Aviator to Abandon Trip at Kennebunkport.

KENNEBUNKPORT, Me., May 2.—Harry N. Atwood today decided to give up his flight to Boston. He will fold the wings of his machine and have it towed back by automobile. He says he will try the Portland trip again under more favorable conditions.

Atwood landed near the town farm house at 4:30 a. m., volunteering from a height of 1,000 feet. He made a good landing, but ran into a mud puddle a few feet.

Atwood said that he left Wells, where he landed at 6:25 last evening, at 9 a. m. today. He had a good flight for twenty minutes, but had trouble with his engine.

Plenty the magnets stopped, and he did not. Fifteen hundred people gathered from the country about her to view the sight.

The flight from Bangor to Wells was made at an average rate of forty-two miles an hour, and at heights varying from 1,500 feet at Newburyport to 300 or 400 feet going over the Maine coast. It was done in about two hours, and Atwood, who had given up the flight, as he was fearful of being caught in the limbo.

DORR SEEKING RELEASE TODAY

STOCKTON, Cal., May 2.—William A.
Dorr, charged with the death of George B. Marsh of Lynn, appeared in court today on a writ of habeas corpus, and Chief Justice of the peace was asked to allow him to be released.

Although his sister, Miss Ophelia Marsh, has not been allowed to see him, Dorr has been begging the police to allow them to visit, and has a photograph of the man he is alleged to have slain Dorr slightly.

"It's not a picture of my father, is it?
It looks a good deal like him."

Chief Thomas Burrows of Lynn today received a dispatch from Inspector William Kelle and Henry Burrows, who have arrived in Stockton, California, where they went to bring back William A. Dorr, indicted as the murderer of George B.
Marsh, saying that Dorr has escaped.

British Warship Is Hit by German Craft

Empress of India Damaged; Merchant Ship Loses Part of Upper Works.

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., May 2.—The British battleship Empress of India was rammed by a German sailing ship of 100 tons today and received a gash in her side above the water line. The merchant ship lost part of her upper works. At the time of the accident the Empress of India was in tow of the cruiser Warbler, which was proceeding through the Falmouth.

Sailors on the main deck of the battleship had a narrow escape from the flying debris of the German ship as it cut into the Empress. The Empress of India is now clashed as a shelling machine, having been hit by a shell twenty-two years ago.

FIRE IN HOME KILLS WOMAN

Mrs. Mary G. Stockinger, fifty-eight years of age, of No. 20 Chestnut avenue, Northbury, was burned to death, early today, when a gas stove over which she was working exploded and set fire to her clothing. The woman was preparing breakfast for her son, Christopher, who was at work in a paleontologist under her apartment.

Young Stockinger heard the explosion and his mother's cries for help. He tried to break in the door, but it was closed.

He tried to break in the door, but it was closed.

On the floor lay his mother. Her clothing was burning and she was unconscious.
He carried her to the house of a neighbor and a doctor was summoned, but the woman died before he arrived.
When the firemen arrived the whole apartment was ablaze.

CINCINNATI, O., May 2.—E. E. Galbreath, former president of the First National Bank of Cincinnati, was arrested today on a warrant sworn out by the U. S. National Examiner Goodhart, charging him with misappropriating funds to the amount of $33,000.

Europe Leads in Fighting Consumption

Specialists in Europe have been fighting consumption during the last few years with remarkable success by using a Swiss preparation called Sirolin. This is of great interest to sufferers in this country, because Sirolin has been imported lately in great quantities, and is sure to become as valuable in the treatment of the disease here as it is abroad.

Sirolin, although very powerful in attacking the tubercle bacilli, contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. It agrees with the most delicate stomach, and creates an appetite that would do credit to a healthy man, thus making it a great body-builder.

Additional information about Sirolin can be obtained in this country by addressing the Sirolin Company, 225 West Broadway, New York City.

All leading druggists are recommending and distributing Sirolin with considerable success.

A LITTLE DANDERINE WILL MAKE YOUR HAIR LUSTROUS, SOFT, FLUFFY, ABUNDANT

Get a 25 Cent Bottle Now and Forever Stop Fading Hair, Itching Scalp and Dandruff

If you Wish to Double the Beauty of your Hair in Ten Minutes surely Try a Danderine Hair Cleanser

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try this—modern a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dirt, dust and excessive oil and in just a few minutes you have doubled the beauty of your hair.

A delightful surprise awaits particularly those who have been careless, whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff, cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair.

Try as you will, after one application of Danderine you cannot deny any dandruff or a loose or falling hair, and your scalp will never itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yet—so really new hair growing all over the scalp. Danderine makes the hair grow long, heavy and lustrous and we give it to you. If you care for pretty, soft hair and want it to surely get a 25 cent bottle of Keweenaw's Danderine from any druggist or toilet counter, and just try it.

STATUE GIVEN BY J. M. BARRIE

LONDON, May 2.—May Day brought a fair gift to the many young girls of London who play every day in the beautiful Kensington gardens.

During the watches of the night there had been much hoar-frost and the children, but when morning broke and the sun shone, they were glad to see the statue of the young man who had been so kind to give them the statue.

The statue, which is a fine work of art, is a gift from the young man who had been so kind to give them the statue. The statue is a fine work of art, and is a gift from the young man who had been so kind to give them the statue.

Titanic Tragedy Reunion

MRS. G. A. HURN, WHOM HUSBAND WILL RECLAIM

Out of the tragedy of the sea in which the Titanic went down there has come out of light that will probably make two more happier than they have been for many years—perhaps that will come from a reconciliation between George A. Hurn, a millionaire banker of Philadelphia, and a wife, who was the widow of Thomas Hurn of Boston.

Brooding over the death of his friend, George D. Widener, and thinking of the wonderful affection that held him and Mrs. Hurn together, Hurn resolved to seek out the widow of his friend, and to see if he could not bring about a reconciliation between them.

Mr. Hurn sailed two days ago for Paris on the Kaiser Auguste Victoria, sending a telegram that he would arrive there at a certain date and asking his wife and daughter, Violet, to meet him.

His mission was to ask Mrs. Hurn to come to Paris with him, and to see if he could not bring about a reconciliation between them.

The Hurns' reunion is now fixed. He can carry five or six crates more. He has for another examination before he sails for Providence on May 5. Those who pass this examination would join the ship either at Providence or at the end of May.

Governor Foss has named May 22 as the probable date for his annual inspection of the Bangor, when drills will be held during a trip outside the harbor.

TIME was when Men wore Silk and Satin Clothing. Likewise Lace ruffles, and Feathers in their "bonnets."

But, Women now very properly preempt these effeminacies.

The time is not far off when light-weight, and silky-finished, Leathers will also be confined to Woman's Wear, for similar reason.

Robust Cloths—Scotch Tweed effects, Irish Hosiery, and the like, are correct expression of Masculine Style, and always will be.

In line with this, the "robust" Leathers, pliable and fine but of medium weight and masculine effect, are fast growing into favor with Men "who understand."

Observe in Show—Windows of high-priced Custom Shoe Makers how effectively that Stalwart kind of Leather is used this year, 1912.

Observe too that instead of being used with heavy, rigid, double-soles, it is now used with the choicest grades of fine-grained Single Soles.

Well, for Spring 1912, you'll find in Regal Shoes many exact replicas of these high-grade Manlike Custom Shoes.

Note particularly a Regal range made in the new "Norse" leather.

Why Speaker Clark Is Now the Strongest Democratic Candidate for President

THE NEW YORK WORLD in a recent editorial opposes Champ Clark as the Democratic nominee on the grounds that he could not be elected because Bryan is for him and because Bryan was not elected.

As a matter of fact Bryan's first choice is Woodrow Wilson, and as a matter of further and very obvious fact Bryan's failure to be elected does not in any way imply a failure on the part of Champ Clark to be elected.

The World editorial might be considered a very good argument for not nominating Bryan. But with all respect to Bryan, what Democrat regardless of the success of the party suggests nominating Bryan?

Clark and Bryan are two exceedingly different men, so different that the defeat of one is almost sufficient to infer the election of the other.

Bryan as a violent extremist never with all his ability succeeded in uniting the Democratic party, never polled the full Democratic vote, never succeeded in securing the support of both conservatives and progressives.

Clark as a moderate, tolerant progressive, firm in his opinions, but considerate of the opinions of others, has succeeded in uniting the Democratic party for the first time in a generation.

He united it when he became the leader of the minority in Congress. He directed it in accordance with the sentiment of the people of the United States. He won the approval, the admiration, the support of the voters of the country, and he transformed a Democratic minority in Congress into a Democratic majority in Congress.

Mr. Bryan with every good intention had never done such a thing, could never in his character and constitution have done such a thing.

Mr. Bryan opposed Mr. Clark's policies in Congress. Mr. Bryan insisted upon an extreme tariff program and upon extreme radicalism in every question that came before Congress.

Mr. Bryan's immediate followers in Congress, inspired by his leadership, for a while opposed the Clark program. But, as usual, Clark harmonized his party, convinced his opponents, united all factions in support of a reasonable measure of tariff reduction.

And the policy of Clark proved the wisdom of Clark. If an extreme program of tariff reduction had been presented to Taft, Taft's veto might have been justified and might have been accepted by the country as a proper and necessary act.

But when a moderate and reasonable tariff program was presented to Taft, Taft's veto was inexcusable and inexplicable, and the whole country resented Taft's repudiation of his promises and condemned him and the Republican party for unreasonable opposition to any tariff reform.

Thus the judgment and sound sense of Champ Clark not only united the Democratic party in Congress behind a proper tariff program, but secured for the Democratic party and for the Democratic party's policies the approval of the whole nation.

This tariff stand of Clark's was taken not only in opposition to Mr. Bryan's opinion, but in defiance of Mr. Bryan's power. Yet the Bryan faction and all other factions in Congress were eventually persuaded to unite on the Clark program, and the Bryan element and all other elements of the nation were compelled to approve the Democratic policy, which was in its origin and in its successful accomplishment distinctly the Clark policy.

The popularity achieved by the Democrats in Congress, the soundness of the program advocated and accomplished by the Democrats in Congress, are mainly responsible for the confidence in Democratic victory this fall.

Who, then, is more capable to lead the Democratic party of the nation to success in the contest for the Presidency than the man who has already led the Democratic party to success in Congress and created the sentiment which makes Presidential success possible?

The World complains that Clark is not a good Democrat nor a fit candidate because he bitterly attacked Cleveland some sixteen years ago.

A great many good Democrats bitterly attacked Cleveland some sixteen years ago, and among the good Democrats who bitterly attacked Cleveland at that time was Joseph Pulitzer, editor of the New York World.

Who will claim that Joseph Pulitzer was not a good Democrat and a great Democrat? And if Mr. Pulitzer is not debared from being considered a great Democrat and a good Democrat by having attacked Cleveland, even more bitterly than Clark attacked him, why then should Clark be refused Democratic regularity for having attacked him?

The analogy is made more complete by the fact that Joseph Pulitzer criticised Cleveland for the same reason that Clark criticised him, and for reasons that are justified in the minds of many men to this day.

Joseph Pulitzer in the World of February 19, 1895, said of Cleveland in relation to Cleveland's bond deal with the Morgan syndicate:

Under the heading, THE BOND TRIUMPHATE—CLEVELAND, STETSON AND MORGAN.

"John Pierpont Morgan looked ahead. * * * His face glowed more than usually as he thought of the chance of a lifetime which was falling his way. He wished secrecy, and was in a position to command it. Why should he not? THERE WAS SEATED IN THE CHAIR OF THE UNITED STATES PRESIDENCY A MAN WHO HAD FATTENED ON FEES PAID BY HIS CHECKS."

On February 21, 1895, Joseph Pulitzer said in the World: "Does anybody now suppose that Mr. Cleveland 'did the best he could' when he secretly sold these bonds to his former client's syndicate at 104½? * * * IS THERE ANY TERM BUT 'BUNCO' WITH WHICH TO DESCRIBE THE TRANSACTION BETWEEN THE GOVERNMENT AND THE SYNDICATE?"

Three days later, on February 24, the following expression of Mr. Pulitzer's opinion of Cleveland appeared in the World:

"With full knowledge of the facts the President and Secretary entered into a secret negotiation with a syndicate of bankers for the placing of the loan. * * * In making this extraordinary bargain the President and Secretary discredited the Government gravely."

Clark's denunciation of Mr. Cleveland contained nothing as strong as this denunciation by Joseph Pulitzer and therefore the World, UNCLE TRUSTY!

Copyright, 1912, by the International News Service

"Well, William, it was a tough fight in Massachusetts! I see by the papers that several hundred silk hats were smashed and a large number of umbrellas were broken! That was a thrilling moment when you swatted Theodore in the nose and he landed on your ear! Talk about dignity—the whole country was proud of both of you! Run and get my slippers, Elihu!"

to be consistent, must of necessity amend or withdraw its aspersion upon Mr. Clark's Democracy.

It is, after all, only another tribute to the record and fitness of Speaker Clark that so resourceful a newspaper as the World, going out of its way to look for reason against his nomination, can find nothing better than a trivial and forgotten incident of a fierce and heated campaign against Cleveland which the World itself led in 1895.

Apart, however, from any editorial opinion as to the fitness and popularity of Champ Clark as a Presidential candidate is the convincing expression of the people's opinion as overwhelmingly expressed in the States which have already held primaries and have given the people an opportunity to express their opinion.

Champ Clark has carried double the number of delegates that Wilson has carried and many more than all of the delegates of all the other candidates combined.

Champ Clark has exhibited in pivotal conservative States like Illinois and Massachusetts such exceptional strength that the Democrats feel justified in believing that with Champ Clark as their nominee they can carry Illinois and Massachusetts.

Before the popular primary in Illinois and Massachusetts the World might have said of those States what it now says of New York. Illinois and Massachusetts were among the conservative States that reactionaries did not believe that Clark could carry, but Clark did carry both by immense majorities, and he carried not only the country districts but the conservative precincts of the cities of Chicago and Boston.

If there were a popular primary in New York State Clark would carry New York State. And in the election Clark will carry New York State.

There is no other man who can harmonize the Democratic party as Clark can.

There is no other man who can unite the factions of the Democratic party as Clark can.

There is no other man who can secure the recruits from the dissatisfied progressives in the Republican party that Clark can.

Clark is able, judicious and sincere, and all men of all parties recognize his ability, his judgment and his sincerity.

The best evidence of his strength is the support he has already received.

The best indication of the success he can win for the Democratic party is the success he has already won for the Democratic party.

The AMERICAN will support any one of the great Democratic leaders appealing to the Democratic masses for the presidential nomination. The AMERICAN is intensely and unselfishly interested in the vital Democratic issues of this crucial campaign.

The sole effort and purpose of the AMERICAN, therefore, is to aid in the selection and in the support of a Democratic candidate who can win and who in winning will carry to success the progressive principles of true Democracy, which the people desire and demand.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

Informing the Voter

The Cogswell Bill, providing that the State shall assume certain expenses connected with conveying information to the voters before the primaries and before the election, has been assigned for debate today.

It is one of the most important and beneficial proposals which has arisen in the House this year.

The idea is to convey to the voter as much information on the subject or candidates as may be reasonably necessary for the voter to know.

The State should furnish all such information to the voters free, just as it furnishes free text books to the school children and free teachers.

Today we are coming to appreciate that voting is not only a privilege, but a duty; a serious, solemn, critical duty, which we owe to the country and to our families.

The country has a right to our best judgment upon the matters which come before us to be determined by our ballots. But we must set upon information, and it must be all the information that is important.

But who has the money, year after year, to supply all the voters with the necessary pamphlets, information, rallies and arguments?

It is an expense that can be borne by those who have a special pecuniary interest in the result of the election.

Men who receive profit from the control of legislation or from governmental favors, consider election expenses just as much a part of business expenses as a builder considers the cost of lumber and of labor a part of the expense of constructing the building.

The Cogswell Bill provides that the State shall furnish two pamphlets before the primaries and two pamphlets after the primaries for the use of the political parties.

The expense will not be as great as the waste in public printing, which Governor Foss recently pointed out in a special message, was going on at the State House.

Careful estimates show that this expense will be less than $60,000.

But to quibble over the cost of the expense to good government is to challenge the necessary cost of popular government itself.

There is no man in the Legislature who can vote against this bill without approving of the present injurious method of influencing legislation by private contributions from the corporations and other special interests.

Any man who votes against the principle of this bill cannot fail to be open to the belief on the part of his constituents that he himself is no loser in his expenses by the present practices.

The Radiant Christ

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX
Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Association

I.
ARISE, O master artist of the age,
And paint the picture which at once shall be Immortal art and blest's prophecy.
The bru'd vision of the world assuage;
To earth's dark book add one illumined page,
So scintillant with truth, that all who see
Shall break from superstition and stand free.
Now let this wondrous work thy hand engage,
The mortal sorrow of the Nazarene
Too long has been faith's symbol and its sign;
Too long a dying Saviour has sufficed,
Give us the glowing emblem which shall mean Mankind awakened to the Self Divine,
The living emblem of the Radiant Christ.

II.
Too long the crucifix on Calvary's height
Has cast its shadow on the human heart
Let now religion's great co-worker, Art,
Linn on the background of departing night
The shining Face all palpitant with light,
And God's true message to the world impart.
Go tell each toiler in the home and mart,
"Lo, Christ is with ye, if ye seek aright."
The world forgets the vital word Christ taught;
The only word the world has need to know;
The answer to creation's problem—Love.
The World remembers what the Christ forgot;
His cross of anguish and His death of woe;
Release the martyr, and the Cross remove!

III.
For now the former things have passed away,
And man, forgetting that which lies behind,
And ever pressing forward, seeks to find
The prize of his high calling. Send a ray
From art's bright sun to fortify the day,
And blaze the trail to every mortal mind.
The new religion lies in being kind;
Faith stands and works, where once it knelt to pray;
Faith counts its gain, where once it reckoned loss;
Ascending paths its patient feet have trod;
Man looks within, and finds salvation there.
Release the suffering Saviour from the Cross,
And give the waiting world its Radiant God.
